

The diagram shows a two-wire transmission line with a total length l . A load resistor R is connected between the two wires at the midpoint. A light bulb is connected in series with the load resistor. The diagram illustrates the electrical circuit and the physical layout of the transmission line.

